DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, and 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamamoto (USPN 6,770,312) for reasons of record in the Office Action dated 02/27/08, which is incorporated herein by reference. With respect to claim 4, optimizing the temperature to which the product is cooled would have been well within the purview of the ordinary worker and, accordingly, is not seen to distinguish over the applied prior art. Where, as here, the prior art teaches the general conditions of a claim, it is not inventive to discover optimum or workable ranges through routine experimentation. In the present case, such endeavor with respect to the cooling temperature would certainly involve no more than routine experimentation and is not considered to be inventive.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 05/27/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Yamamoto fails to teach freezing "traditional" risotto, as presently claimed. This is not persuasive, since Yamamoto clearly suggests that risotto is well within the scope of the disclosure. For instance, Yamamoto teaches that "[t]he present invention can be applied widely for manufacturing frozen food products . . . for example, pilaf and risotto"

(col. 15, lines 11-15). On reading such disclosure, one having ordinary skill in the art would immediately envisage freezing "traditional" risotto, as presently claimed.
